10. On November 13, 2023, nursing staff at St. Paul's Hospital in Saskatoon raised concerns over unsafe conditions due to overcrowding in the emergency department.

The staff's letter to Saskatchewan Health Authority highlights issues like poor patient-to-nurse ratios and inadequate security, exacerbated by the hospital's location in a high-crime area. The staff also expressed fears of potential violence and lamented the indignity suffered by patients due to lack of space.

Do you believe that the Saskatchewan Health Authority should prioritize funding for increasing security measures in hospitals located in high-crime areas?

Yes
